6. Admittedly, Farhan has not been granted bail till date and as regards the bail granted to Chand Ali and Raja Babu, the role ascribed to them by prosecution is only to the extent that they were present at the spot. Role of the present accused/applicant is completely distinguishable.

7. As regards the issue of delay in trial, learned counsel for complainant de facto points out that in the earlier bail application, vide order dated 07.02.2026 (Annexure A-4 to the application), this Court, after examining the ordersheets of the trial court, opined that there was no delay in trial that could be attributed to prosecution or the Court, therefore, that application was withdrawn by the accused/applicant with liberty to file afresh after recording of testimony of the parents of the deceased and now, that the mother of the deceased has strongly supported the prosecution case while the father of the deceased had no specific role as a witness, the accused/applicant cannot claim bail alleging delay in trial.

8. So far as the argument that there are no objectionable antecedents, I find substance in submission of prosecution that this is a case of honour killing in which the accused persons allegedly killed the boy who had an affair with the sister of the stabber and niece of the accused/applicant.

9. Considering the gravity of the offence and testimony of mother of the deceased, who has supported prosecution case, I do not find it a fit case to
